

Divine Order

The un-ease you are feeling is universal. Everyone — every person, every creature on this planet — is feeling the disruption of change. There is un-ease in not knowing quite which direction this change is taking us. And yet, I can assure you it is to a better world — one more enlightened, one more enshrined in goodness, enveloped in love, saturated with light.

The light that is within you will shine forth in ever-empowering circles of light, enabling all to see and feel the Love that has created us all.

Divine Order? Yes! The order of the Divine is Love. The order of the Divine is Light — the Light that dissipates despair, the Light that shines through all things and illuminates our minds and hearts together.

The Light prepares us for something new — it guides us through the change that unsettles our hearts. Yet with the guidance of the Light, our hearts can remain steady, assured by the Love that radiates through the heart of the Light.

This is an enigma but we must understand that what is beyond us is within us. What is beyond our understanding is actually within our heart of hearts. And there we can reside and be guided by the wisdom that resides therein.

While we think it is hidden too deeply, yet it is there, just behind the veil — the veil that seems so impenetrable — and yet will melt with the slightest touch of Love.

Have compassion for yourselves. Make way for the Love of the Divine to reveal itself within you. There is the Divine Order that you seek, yet you know not. Open your hearts. Compassion is just around the corner. Resilience comes once again, refreshing the soul with the waters of Divine Love.

Seek to impart this wisdom to all that they may find refreshment in the truth that is within them — within the Love that interpenetrates all things — the Love that is the essence of being, the Love that is the essence of the All, the Love within which we have our being and from which we derive our motivation, our basis for living, for going forward, for moving on into higher dimensions, into new worlds yet to be discovered, into the land that once was “make-believe”.

It is your reality. It is not beyond you. It is within you. Move forward more deeply within yourself and visit with the heart that moves inside you — the Great Heart that moves the universe within you and there see how you can create all that you dream of being.

All the good cheer and laughter and love and great-heartedness that you hope to see open before you on this planet Earth. There it is! Catch the vision — of that which you are creating! Do not let yourself despair. The Love that creates is within you — the Light that shines is in your heart of hearts.

Your entire being is on fire with Love and Light. See it burning — a torch for all to follow, lighting up the sky at midnight. There shall be no more darkness. The darkness cannot prevail against the Light. The Light that moves us never dims. It is with us forever and so we are immortal in all our being.

Move forward in hope, in faith, in love. See it evolve before your very eyes. Feel the change for good. For all that is within you is Good. And all you create is Love. Love the world in your being. Hold it close to your heart, for the world that you imagine is in your heart of hearts and all you need to do is LET IT GO!

The fullness of Love is upon you. The gracious Light Divine is within you. Manifest your dreams of all that is to be.

I am White Eagle. The change that is upon you is good. Fear it not.

May peace and peace and peace be with you.

So be it.