

The Spangled Vision of Yourself!

In the Light that shines upon me, in the Love that keeps us still, I address you with all my heart. I am White Eagle.

I am yours to command for all that has come into being is not lost upon you. You can see the heavens apart.

Master yourself and all those around you will become masters in turn.

Be self-contained. Monitor all that you do. Keep your thoughts from wandering. Notice the changes in your body and your mind and your soul. This is a critical time. Things are changing rapidly and all that you know is coming to fruition. You cannot see the stars without knowing – they wink to you in intelligence – the Intelligence of the Cosmos, the Mind of the Creator, the Beingness of All That Is.

Fancy being on a star and seeing all that glows throughout the galaxy. Imagine hopefulness and light shimmering and showering from every direction their blessings upon you. Think how you will perceive all this – in every cell of your body and every atom of your soul for it is all a part of you. And so it ever will be.

It does not range from heaven above to earth below but radiates from within the very structure of your cells, the atoms of your Being, the Loving Wind of your Spirit. There is the Creator's arc manifesting in all.

For there stands the human mystery which glides through the universe endowed with all the aspects of the Creator, fully equipped to negotiate galaxies and seed the stars with Love.

How dramatic is the scene before you! The spangled vision of yourself! Walking through universes of your desire, enfolding the Love and Light between you and manifesting new worlds ever expanding in their glory and in their wisdom.

What Light can you shine upon this but that it ever was and ever will be within the cellular structure of your Being? Answer to the Creator within you and seek the wisdom that lies therein. For no one can contain you. You are the stars. You are the planets. You are the sun and moon. You are All That Is. For All That Is is within you.

Open your heart to the wisdom within, to the mighty sword of discrimination, to the awesome truth of who you really are. Let the bells chime for one another – for the revelation that is about to be seen.

Celebrate all that is within you. Be joyful. Be happy. Be well. Just BE! And all is well and all is well and all is well within you.

Speak peace to my brothers and sisters on Earth and tell them the good news – that all is well within them, if they will only listen to the heartstrings within them, to the tones that ensue, to the rapture that is released with the Love of LIFE and all within it. Speak rapture to all. Speak Love to everyone and let the Light shine upon you all.

May peace and peace and peace be everywhere and always with you.

So be it, dear one. So be it.
