

There is a beauty to this dance

I am White Eagle.

In the long configuration of the Earth's history, many constellations have actually come and gone. Configurations change of the stars in the heavens yet in some respects, they remain the same. We cannot say how each configuration will affect the Earth but we can explain that the Earth is central to these configurations.

You know you are experiencing a square and within that square a cross yet you do not know what it signifies. Yet to close observers who understand these matters, it is quite clear a substantial change is in the offing. What change that will be depends in part upon the consciousness that dwells upon the Earth at the time of the configuration. For nothing in the heavens happens without affecting the consciousness of the Earth and yet the consciousness of the Earth also affects the configuration in the heavens.

No one can completely predict what will happen or why because that consciousness between the two worlds, so to speak, is dynamic. One affects the other. Consciousness changes and as it changes, it fulfills a destiny that may be written in the stars but the stars may twinkle at the consciousness of the Earth and playfully insist that it change and grow! There is humor in the heavens. It is not all seriousness! Think of Jupiter, Jove – the jovial one. There is laughter as well as tears reflected upon the ancient spheres of the universe.

Galaxy upon galaxy move in a blessed harmony as if in a ballet step by step in consonance with one another. This is how the stars move and the planets with them. There is a divine consciousness that rules this interplay of light, that laughs and plays and delights in the interplay of consciousness.

There is a beauty to this dance that only a disembodied spirit can observe and yet humanity must perceive the dance and step to the rhythm of the waves of the universe. For all is holy, all is beauty, all is peace and harmony among the stars and planets of the universe.

The reality is Perfection – perfect synchronization of all steps in this great and glorious dance. The heavens sparkle with delight at all they are and all they will become! For as the mark of consciousness moves forward, so too, all the heavens rejoice and welcome the Earth to higher planes, to sing the finer harmonies, to sense the finer vibrations that spring from the step – the step of ancient harmonies, of primordial goodness, of wholeness and of mercy and kindness and gentleness, of joyfulness, of laughter and fulfillment – all moving to the ancient step, the beat of the ancient drum, the harmonies of the Eternal Wave of Light and Love that sequences all events.

All waves of light, all particles of matter, all cellular forces, all atoms dance to the tune of the Master. Listen to the beat of your heart. Feel the pulse of the universe within your very soul. And know that every vibration comes from One Source – the Source of All. Each one beats to the rhythm of the All. Each one lies in the heart of the All for there is nothing but this – the rhythm of Love and Light that penetrates every fiber of your being to the finest ethers of your soul.

Nothing is more beautiful than this – that you should know the Light and be the Light and see the Light and forever live in the Light that is the essence of the All, the essence of One and All. Let there be harmony within and without, in the higher spheres and in the lower. Let true consciousness raise the Earth and all who dwell upon it to the higher harmonies that await your discovery. Sing in sync with the songs of the stars and never forget who you are. So be it.
