

I have come that you may have peace ~

I am White Eagle.

I have come that you may have peace. Deep within your heart, in your very heart of hearts, there is a deep well of love that rises up within you, that speaks to you, that carries you forward, that comforts you, and bears you along on your way – the way of each and every one – for it is the same. For each must find their way home to the core of their being that they may know the truth of who they are and where they come from.

The depth of this knowledge is unfathomable and yet it is within you – the treasure store is there to be tapped if only persistently you will mine it – mind it! It responds to your consciousness. The more you can train your consciousness upon it – upon the depths of your being – the more likely you are to find that treasure within that knows no bounds, that has no limitations, that refuses to confine you to the human body.

The riches within you are incredible to the human mind and yet you must apply your mind and your full consciousness to awareness of who you are deep, deep within. There it is! Like the pea under the mattresses piled up for the princess to discover, you can feel it too. Train your awareness upon that pea, that seed of love and light within you and it will well up like a fountain within you and bring you enlightenment – illumination and peace of heart that you so dearly long for.

Recognize within you this effervescent source of power, of love, of esteem, of life everlasting that rises within you perpetually if only you can be aware of it, if only you will be aware of it.

Consciousness – trained on your inmost being is the road to serenity, is the way of life. Eternity is within you. Eternity is all around you. You are eternity! There is that in you which cannot be destroyed – that unites you with all there is in the universe, in all creation. There is nothing that cannot be done, nothing that cannot be seen or known – nothing you cannot be!

Salute the Being with you, that moves all things – there is the force of all life – the sense of all well-being – the rapture of love, the heart of song, the life everlasting. It dwells within you. Seek and you will find the joy within that wells up from the very heart of your being.

You are so beloved, so very deeply loved. The angels and archangels surround you, the ascended masters are assembled here.
