

The free will that you exercise . . .

I am White Eagle.

The free will that you exercise is of another plane. It is equal to that which you know of as the Buddhic plane. Free will only exists in the state you know as Buddha because the will has overcome the human nature.

The will must be steadily applied toward self-discipline and passionate desire for the Infinite. Through this refined fire the will truly does become free because it becomes one with the All and only therein is there truly free will. For once the will is merged with the All, there is but one will and that will belongs to God.

How freely you think of ways to overcome the entrapment that you feel and yet there is but one way to marshal all the forces within you to dominate the lower will.

There is a higher will you must seek and in that higher will, you will find your freedom. There is no dispensation like to this, there is no freedom like to this and how few attain it! Yet it is not impossible and it is the goal for which you must strive.

No one can imagine the joy that is felt in the release from the chains of lower will, the lower mind, the lower instincts, when one at last achieves total freedom of will.

Yet the discipline required to reach this state is immense. But if you ask for help from the angels and archangels and your spiritual masters, you, too, can attain this state of bliss.

For you must be in earnest, thoroughly desiring the highest good for yourself, yes, but for all you meet and all the world and the Earth beneath your feet. For in so loving all the world, you will find your true love in your heart of hearts and thus your will will take wings upon that holy love and fly to heaven above — to the godly bliss you seek, to the heavenly home that is truly your home, to return to that which you truly are, walking, moving, being in the great I AM. Never to lose sight again of who you are. Never more bewildered by an array of temptations. Never again harangued by evil forces.

So it shall be if you so desire. Make your desires known. Pray constantly for release from your prison of self-doubt and honor the being within you, your whole, true self. Honor the love within you. Honor the passion within you to be free of all chains — to know the Truth, to be the Truth, to see the Truth shining ever before you and within you.

There can be no mistake. All of life dwells within your heart and swells the eternal chorus of life unsung.

Brave men and women, move forward! Seek that which is true and hold fast to that which you cannot know yet instinctively understand. Be caught up in the holy fire that rises up from the ashes of the old body to the refined fire of the pure spirit that animates you, that fires your imagination, that sings to you deep in your heart of hearts.

Honor this. Recognize its power. Feel its instinct to rise ever higher, to the ground upon which you will one day stand — free, whole, perfect, golden in the light of eternal love.

Seek the Light. Be of the Light. Be in the Light. Be the Light. For you, too, shall show the way for others to follow. Do not hesitate to make your way to freedom. The journey is long but the reward is great. Move ever forward to the Land of Light and Eternal Bliss.

Walk with me. Take my hand. Follow me.
