

Follow the Stream of Love and Light

I am White Eagle.

The majority of people desire peace but there is a strong minority that wishes for war, seeks Armageddon, revels in conflict, and has no sense of the meaning of peace.

Those of you who care for peace must lift up your hearts and minds to follow the stream of Love and Light that will move you to the next dimension. You will be carried upon the stream, lifted over all hurdles, called upon to act wholly within the stream of Love and Light.

You will acknowledge all that you know deep within your hearts to be the Truth, and as witnesses to the Truth, you will lead all humankind to the higher reaches. You will see beyond your current limitations of sight and sound and truly begin to witness the unfolding of higher worlds to your inner vision so that at last you will Know the Truth and Be the Truth and See the Truth.

There is no higher mission than this — than that you put your minds and hearts to this end — to follow the Light, to be the Light, to honor the Light within you and within every human being you meet and every creature upon the earth and every plant, every tree and every drop of water, to see the unity of all things — the One in the All. Now and forever together, unified, whole, substantial in the Light, holy within and holy without, the essence of Beauty, the essence of Being, soaring into the atmosphere of pure Love and Light.

There can be no higher calling than this — that you keep within the Light, cherish the Light and hold it in the core of your Being that you may be a Lamp for all to see, for all to follow, for all who yearn for the Light Within.

There is no separateness. To think that you are separate is an illusion. We are all One.

Oneness is the recognition of who we truly are. The beauty of this is in the living of it. The inner glow of wholeness and rightness. The inner glow of Truth that can no longer be hidden under a bushel — but must shine forth into the world.

Purity of intention, purity of heart, purity of mind and soul lead you inexorably to your new destiny.

Glow with the Fire Divine.